Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Admiral Turner:

In May, 1976, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was requested by the Chairman of the Security Committee of the United States Intelligence Board to establish and operate the Interagency Telephone Laboratory for the Intelligence Community under an Executive Agent agreement.

I am pleased to advise you that the services of this facility, which is located in Room 1B089 of the J. Edgar Hoover FBI Building, are now available. I invite you and other Intelligence Community members to utilize and visit this facility.

This Laboratory will serve the members of the Intelligence Community in the testing of domestic and foreign telephone related finds and provide a continuing assessment of the security threat posed by commercial telephone equipment and systems.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is happy to perform this vital function for the Intelligence Community.

Sincerely yours,

Clarence M. Kelley
